

Mrs. Candela,

Through the past thirteen years of school I've had good teachers and bad. A good teacher can turn a boring subject into an amazing discussion, and I saw that done first hand in career tech. Not that talking about our future plans isn't interesting, but it's not interesting every day. Despite that, every single class you started out as energetic as possible. I can honestly say that you're one of the most unique teachers that I've ever had.

I like how you tell kids to follow their dreams instead of going for jobs that pay big and I'm pretty sure that if everyone followed your advice, the world would be much happier. I'm not sure the percentage, but there's a lot of teachers that don't enjoy teaching. I found it pretty inspiring how much you love teaching and how much effort you put into it. I understand that no matter what I do in life, to be great at it requires endless effort. It was really neat to see that in action inside your classroom.

So anyways I made you this box and letter to show my appreciation for you being an awesome teacher. It's really cool how you inspire kids in your classroom and I hope that I can do the same one day.
